New contract with a government agency in Belgium

---

Villepinte, January 2, 2019

DRONE VOLT, a French aeronautics manufacturer specializing in professional civilian drones, has won a contract with the Hainaut Centre civil protection zone (ZHC) in Belgium for the supply of a complete surveillance solution.

The Hainaut Centre civil protection zone covers firefighters and ambulance drivers at ten emergency centers (formally fire departments) serving 28 municipalities and protecting 570,000 inhabitants (equal to around 5% of the total population of Belgium).

DRONE VOLT Benelux, the DRONE VOLT subsidiary based in Brussels, was chosen by ZHC for the supply of a tethered camera and drone viewing system developed by the group and its partners.

The chosen solution includes a HERCULES 5 UF drone, a PENSAR camera featuring pattern recognition artificial intelligence and a module allowing, for example, instantaneous video feedback at a command post far from a fire or disaster.

“This contract demonstrates our ability to deploy complementary solutions offered by the DRONE VOLT group and its partners,” indicated Olivier GUALDONI, the chairman / CEO of DRONE VOLT. “Additionally, this contract demonstrates the very good trend at our subsidiary in the Benelux zone following the successes recorded in November with a European army and the Belgian civil protection service.”
