SAIPEM is showing interest in DRONE VOLT's Artificial Intelligence (AI)

Villepinte, February 27, 2019

DRONE VOLT has announced the sale, through its AERIALTRONICS subsidiary (an expert in artificial intelligence), of two complete solutions to the Italian company SAIPEM, one of the world leaders in the oil services sector.

A 30% owned subsidiary of ENI, SAIPEM is a world leader in oil platform engineering and construction, predominately in the offshore area. SAIPEM has chosen the DRONE VOLT solutions involving drones and artificial intelligence for inspection and monitoring missions.

SAIPEM has initially opted to equip one of its ships with two Hercules 10 drones and two PENSAR intelligent camera. DRONE VOLT will additionally supply pilot and maintenance training. SAIPEM subsequently plans to equip five other ships with identical solutions.

“SAIPEM represents a major international client reference for DRONE VOLT”, indicated Olivier Gualdoni, chairman / CEO of DRONE VOLT. “On a fast-growing market, we are largely outpacing our competitors and are increasing the depth of our client portfolio, with now includes over sixty major recurring accounts. Our objective now is to strive for the large scale deployment of our solutions.”
